SPEAKING OF PICTURES . . .

. . . SAILORS TOOK ALL THESE

FAVORITE SHOT

Stowed in every sailor's locker is a set of precious photographs—of himself, his shipmates, family, girls, places and things. They tell the cheerful history of his private life as faithfully as his service record lists the cold facts of his naval career. Shown here is a representative sample, culled from a bumper crop that was harvested by LIFE's request, posted in ships and shore stations.

The sailor's own pictures show him as the gregarious extravert who loves life ashore and ashore and survives the regimen of his career with his sense of humor intact. High on his list of favorites are gag pictures, running from sailor-hatted bulldogs to the square-rigged destroyer shown below. Ashore he is an easy-going tourist, unencumbered by guidebooks. With his shipmates he explores the town, gets photographed against local landmarks.

With friendly local girls he makes a full evening of the simple gaiety a town affords, in dance halls, playlands, bars and ice-cream parlors. He saves his pictures, not to pore over lonesomely at sea but to show on leave to folks at home.

Trick perspective makes standard gag picture showing big holes in sailor's shoe soles.

Colonial stocks, as a local landmark, prove this sailor visited historic Williamsburg, Va.

Crossing-the-line ceremony inducts Pollywog into fraternity of Shellbacks with a vigorous ablation in the "pool of purity." Party is welcome break in monotony of tropic sea.

A helping hand is given a construction gang by sailors at Portsmouth, Va. Never bored in brief exposures to shore life, sailors are amused by seriousness with which civilians take it.

LIFE'S PICTURES

Carl Mydans, LIFE's photo-reporter who roamed battlefields in Finland and France from September 1939 to June 1940, now turns his lens on the U. S. Navy (see pp. 23-97). During one month with the Fleet in the Pacific, Mydans took pictures aboard a battleship, a cruiser, a destroyer, a submarine, a hospital ship and a repair ship. Mydans also spent some time in the brig of the U. S. S. Indianapolis. Early one morning he had climbed onto a platform over the Admiral's bridge, when a gust of wind blew sunshade and filter from his Zeiss Super-Ikonta camera. They fell near Vice Admiral Adolphus Andrews, commander of the Scouting Force. After lunch Mydans was served with a paper charging him with "willfully, maliciously and without justifiable cause" assaulting and attempting to strike with a dangerous weapon of German manufacture one Adolphus Andrews, Vice Admiral. With mock solemnity he was taken to the brig and locked up. Few moments later the entire wardroom, from executive officer down, descended and peered through the grille at Prisoner Mydans. When each had enjoyed a good laugh, Mydans was set free.

This Pop was once "too tired"!

1. He was typical of thousands of fathers. Busy. Lots of responsibilities. Too dog tired to enjoy the children and wife he was working for. What turned him into this new man with extra endurance for the end of the day? Simply a new, easy way of drinking a food that fights fatigue!

2. Mom discovered in an ad that the same Knox Gelatine she had always used for desserts and salads was also a fatigue fighting food. Hundreds of men and women drank Knox Gelatine in a 28-day test. They were people with demanding jobs.* Their reports were amazing. 2 out of 3 who started, and 9 out of 10 who completed the Knox 28-day test, reported that Knox had so built up their endurance they were definitely less tired.

*In the 23 different occupational groups tested were included business executives, telephone operators, salesmen, radio actresses, truck drivers.

3. You and your husband may be tired because you aren't getting the right proteins in your daily meals. Try drinking Knox Gelatine...it's all protein.

Drink 4 envelopes a day for the first 2 weeks, then 2 envelopes a day for following 2 weeks. Thereafter, take as needed. Stir contents of envelope into 3/4 glass of water or fruit juice. Drink immediately. (Directions in every package.) Knox is tasteless. For details on the Knox Build-Up Plan, send this coupon.

Knox Gelatine ...A FOOD THAT FIGHTS FATIGUE

"These snappy days," quoth Ezra Grude, "I always yearn for extra food. But if I wink at discipline, I'm sure to run a double chin." "I'll tell you how I beat that jinx," said slender Mrs. Jesse Prynks. "I drink hot BOVRIL when I'm flat. It keeps me fit but makes no fat. It stimulates depleted verve but does not amplify a curve."

At Fountains • 10c a Cup • Hot
At food and drug stores, in jars and cubes,
